ABOUT SINGAPORE

Singapore officially the Republic of Singapore, could even be a sovereign island country and city-state in maritime Southeast Asia .Malacca to the west, the Singapore Strait to the south, the South China Sea to the east and thus the Straits of Johor to the north. The country's territory consists of 1 main island, 63 satellite islands and islets, and one outlying islet, the combined area of which has increased by 25% since the country's independence as a results of thorough land reclamation projects. it's the third highest population density in the world. With a multicultural population and recognising the necessity to respect cultural identities of the major ethnic groups within the nation, Singapore has four official languages; English, Malay, Mandarin, and Tamil. English is that the inter language and various public services are available only in English. Multiracialism is enshrined within the constitution and continues to shape national policies in education, housing, and politics singapore's history dates back a minimum of a millennium, having been a maritime emporium mentioned as Teases and subsequently as a big constituent part of several successive thalassic empires. Its contemporary era began in 1819 when Stamford Raffles established Singapore as an entrepôt country store of the British Empire. In 1867, the colonies in Southeast Asia were reorganised and Singapore came under the direct control of Britain as part of the Straits Settlements. During the Second war , Singapore was occupied by Japan in 1942, and returned to British control as a separate Crown Colony following Japan's surrender in 1945. Singapore gained self-governance in 1959 and in 1963 became a component of the new federation of Malaysia, alongside Malaya, Sabah , and Sarawak. Ideological differences, most notably the perceived encroachment of the egalitarian "Malaysian Malaysia" political ideology led by Lee Kuan Yew into the opposite constituent entities of Malaysia – at the perceived expense of the bumiputera and the policies of Ketuanan Melayu – eventually led to Singapore's expulsion from the federation two years later; Singapore became an independent sovereign country in 1965.
